

DEKRA – Project manager Metering

Your role

DEKRA is growing and we're looking for a Project Manager who combines technical knowledge with leadership skills. You'll use your expertise in project management with electrical components to realise a high-end test department of metering products.

You'll lead and build your team as we expand our smart energy testing business. You'll work closely with colleagues in EV charging, electrical safety, electronics, cybersecurity, and sales to deliver true one-stop testing services to our international customers both online and face-to-face.

What you'll do

- Prepare technical quotations, test plans, and budgets.
- Coordinate and support test engineers to ensure every test meets standards.
- Apply and interpret IEC, ANSI, and OIML standards to ensure compliance.
- Analyze results and deliver clear, accurate reports.
- Communicate proactively with clients — share insights, progress, and build trust.

Your main focus: AC and DC smart energy metering (IEC 62052, IEC 62053, ANSI C12, OIML, etc.).

Your experience will help DEKRA achieve key accreditations and grow our role in the all-electric society.

Your profile

- Experience in testing and managing of electronic projects;
- Communication skills at all levels;
- English language at a professional level;
- Interest in testing from electronic components like metering.

Our offer

- Flexibility and freedom;
- Competitive salary in line with your experience;
- Access to development;
- Excellent employment conditions;
